API BECI LEVELING SYSTEM

All students who study in API Group are assessed of their linguistic ability through the level tests given by the institute. This is because our school believes that after giving our students predefined sets of classroom coursework, it is fair to track their progression through level tests in all skill areas. Students are assessed individually on a weekly and monthly basis depending on their corresponding course. Students are then given the lessons according to their academic performance result. API BECI's leveling system is aligned internationally to produce globally competitive graduates.

PARROT PROGRAM

Students have their own mother tongue and English is a second language for them. Their native language, which students are accustomed to, interferes with their English learning. In the acquisition of English words, both pronunciation and comprehension are important, but when students meet English sounds that they are not used to, they replace them with sounds similar to those of their native language resulting to mispronunciations.

Parrots can't read nor spell and, of course, don't know their meaning. It only listens to people's voices and imitates them. The Parrot program allows students to learn English sounds first to avoid interference from the mother tongue.

Students learn by listening and mimicking the pronunciation of a given word and reading articles that contain the word to undergo re-learning and improve proficiency. This leads to the improvement of your listening skills too.

Rehab program is designed for beginner to advanced students. It is intended to provide fundamental to highly advanced lessons in pronunciation and vocabulary to dramatically improve the clarity and precision with which students speak English, and to dramatically expand the vocabulary and improve the diction of students.
